A Changing Wind ...

"A life that is never willing to change is a great tragedy - a wasted life. Change is a necessary part of a growing life, and we need change in order to remain fresh and to keep progressing."

— Rick Warren

As I approach the end of my role as the Scoutmaster of Troop 1000, I reflect more on the journey that has placed me in my 16th year with the Troop. I think about the changes that occurred between my time as a Scout and my time as an Assistant Scoutmaster, from Assistant Scoutmaster to Scoutmaster, and from the time I pinned on the Scoutmaster patch to now. So many changes, that I cannot possibly remember any except those that significantly impacted either the program or me. But through all the change and all the time, there is a continued purpose and message that has not changed.

From the origins of the Boy Scouts over 100 years ago to now, the purpose of the program has been to build character, train youth to be participating citizens, and teach the importance of physical, mental, and emotional fitness. Many confuse Boy Scouts with being an outdoor program, to teach boys to live in the outdoors. The program occurs in the outdoors, but the outdoors is merely our classroom and laboratory. Over the years, I can assure you there have been countless changes in our

The Joe Shafer Spirit Award

At the November Troop Court of Honor, we will have the pleasure and honor of dedicating the Joe Shafer Spirit Award. This award is not only in memory of and dedicated to a great man and Troop 1000 Assistant Scoutmaster, but also Joe made it.

Joe was the kind of man that you couldn't help but like. He was quick to lend a hand, patient with Scouts and adults, and seemed to be smiling about something most the time. Joe is the person who thought of the idea for the Spirit Award; a tangible way to recognize the Patrol that demonstrated the most spirit and lived by the Scout Oath and Law during a campout. While Joe dubbed the award the "Spirit Stick," we joked about it being more the "Spirit Log."

Originally when the Spirit Stick was passed from Patrol to Patrol, every month Joe would create a new topper that appeared like a flame from the top of the Spirit Stick. The flame would have the Patrol name, Campout and date engraved on it. When the award was passed on to the next Patrol, or re-awarded to the same Patrol, the old flame topper was often tied to the Patrol flag to show the Patrol had received the honor. Today, we retain a permanent flame atop the Spirit Stick, and it will remain there in honor of Joe.

Joe may be gone from our physical presence now, but Joe will never be gone from our hearts. It is fitting that the Spirit Stick be renamed in honor of Joe, and from now on be passed in his honor from Patrol to Patrol as the Joe Shafer Spirit Award.

curriculum, but the purpose has remained the same, and our laboratory has remained the same.

A new Scoutmaster brings change to our Troop in Leadership style, ideas, and methods of accomplishing a goal, but the purpose of Scouting and the way to achieve that purpose will remain largely unchanged. The reason is that it is the Scoutmaster's role to use the methods of Scouting to achieve the aims of Scouting. It is both a duty to encourage change to promote fun, new experiences, and offer challenges to the Scouts; and a duty to prevent changes that differ from the established policies and procedures of the Boy Scouts of America, our Chartering Organization, and those of our Troop established to meet both.

Fortunately for all of us, the Boy Scouts of America provides training, program information, personal guidance, and mentors for those who step into the role of Leadership. As I step back and a new Leader steps forward, I am confident that Troop 1000 will continue forward on a course towards new and great things.

Just as a sailor knows the benefit of prevailing winds, a sailor also recognizes the possibilities of new courses and destinations that come with a changing wind. I will continue to be a part of Troop 1000, offering guidance, knowledge, and mentoring when asked; and I look forward to helping the Scouts continue achieving their goals. At the same time I look forward to taking more active roles with Venture Crew 1000, and Golden Arrow District. New courses await, new destinations are possible, and new journeys begin, all because of a changing wind.

Yours in Scouting,
Rick Diamond, Scoutmaster, Troop 1000 "One Grand Troop"

WE WANT YOU!

Quartermaster's Corner: What kind of tent do Scouts want for their next campout?

In Troop training of about 35 Scouts I asked, "How many of you have ever checked out a tent for a campout only to find it had problems when you got to the campsite?" Unbelievably every single Scout raised his hand! T1000 Scouts told stories about missing poles, bad zippers, torn tents, or even missing parts. Dirty tents were also a big complaint.

It didn't take long to find out that we weren't taking care of our tents. After a campout, they were supposed to be taken home, cleaned, and returned to storage. However, nobody was checking the tents to ensure they were actually cleaned, maintained, and ready to be checked out again. BAZINGA!! It didn't take long for bad tents to get put back on the shelf and issued as good tents the following month.

It's time to review our procedures for using our tents in Troop 1000. Some is new, most will be a refresh.

1. Tents are checked out to two Scouts on the Money Monday before a campout. The Troop Quartermaster (QM) will record the Scout names, patrol, and tent number in his log.
2. After the campout, the Scouts are required to take home their tent to clean it, re-fold it, and return it on the first full Troop meeting following the campout.
3. The Troop QM, assisted by two Patrol QM will staff the QM shed from 6:45 – 7:30pm the night of the Troop meeting.
4. Scouts will arrive and prepare their tents ready for check-in by doing the following:
 - a. Unpack the entire contents of the tent bag.
 - b. Lay out all contents of the tent bag on the parking lot just outside the QM Cage area.
 - c. Allow the QMs to review the contents for completeness and cleanliness.
 - d. Re-pack the tent and give to the QM for storage.

"Huh? You mean I have to arrive early to the Troop meeting and show my tent to the QM before he will take it from me?" What a hassle, right?! However, doing this will ensure tents that go back on the shelf in the QM shed are indeed ready for re-issue for the next camping trip. And in end – as that's what Scouts deserve – to be issued a tent that is ready for camping.

The Scoutmaster has a couple of other policies when it comes to Scouts and tents.

1. All T1000 Scouts are expected to sleep two Scouts to a tent. Exceptions will be approved only by the Scoutmaster.
2. Tents are to be returned to the Troop QM on the first full Troop meeting following a campout. (Not the Greenbar). Scouts who do not return their tents on that Monday will be receive a $10 fine and asked to return it the following week. Each week the tent is not returned, another $10 will be added to the fine total.
3. Normal wear and tear on tents will be handled by the Troop. Examples include: bent stakes, broken shock cord (elastic cord holding poles together), worn bags, etc. Misuse and abuse will be handled by the Scout. Examples include: bent/broken poles, torn fabric, zippers broken by forcibly pulling tab, lost parts. In these cases, the QM will provide the Scout with replacement information. The tent will be returned to the Scout for him to keep until the issue is resolved and a complete, working tent can be turned in.

The T1000 Committee is investing over $1,000 each year in new tents for the Troop. Before long we will be using almost exclusively the ALPS Outfitter II Tent. We owe it to ourselves and our fellow Scouts to make sure we take care of the Troop's investment. Following these procedures will ensure our tents stay in good shape for years to come.

Wilderness Survival Campout: Oct. 23 - 25

Wilderness Survival is an experience you won't forget! We'll be heading down to Hickory Hills Hideaway in LaRue, TX. There, the Scouts and Webelos guests will need to find food and water, treating all accordingly for a meal or two. Then, they will build their own shelter using nature's very best pine furnishings.

With a little luck, we may have VIP visitors Hipshot (Landowner Mr. Wooten's ancestor from the 1800s) and his wife for dinner. Western wear will be the dress code for the campfire. Coyotes beware — Scouts in the house!

Watch the website and email for the permission slip and prepare yourself for an unforgettable adventure!

KEEP

AND
DUES

Understanding When Patrol Dues Come Due

"A Scout is thrifty. A Scout works to pay his way and to help others. He saves for the future. He protects and conserves natural resources. He carefully uses time and property." — Scout Handbook

In Troop 1000, the Patrol Scribes collect monthly $5 dues the first Monday of every month from each of their Patrol members, and turns the dues in with an accounting sheet to the Troop Scribe. The dues are to be earned by each Scout by doing extra jobs, chores, or tasks that are not part of the Scout's routine family responsibilities. Cleaning their room, loading dishes, and cutting grass, are just ordinary household responsibilities divided by a family.

A Scout should have an opportunity to earn the money which helps pay his way in Scouting, and to learn the value of work and reward. Without the effort and perseverance to achieve a goal, the Scout learns little and comes to expect reward without effort.

To encourage Scouts to be thrifty and to ensure the Troops ability to adequately plan campouts, dues will no longer be accepted on Money Monday, just prior to a campout. If a Scout is not current in their dues, the Scout will not be able to attend campouts until the dues are current. This will mean a delay of at least one month in campout attendance, and could lead to a Scout missing a fantastic opportunity.

To help prevent a Scout being denied the opportunity to participate, and to try and improve dues status, the Troop Scribe will provide dues status sheets to the Patrol Leaders and the Patrol Advisors. They will be able to remind Scouts to correct any deficiencies, but regardless, the responsibility to remain current is the individual Scout's.

If anyone should be looking for a job to earn the $5, not to worry ... I have a long list of small things needing done. Also, nothing says a Patrol can't work together, and remember October 12 is the last opportunity to catch up this month before the campout.

Stay Thrifty My Friends,

Rick Diamond

Meet the Next Scoutmaster: Dale Leonard

A native of Plano, TX, Dale Leonard works as a Senior Cyber Security Engineer for a financial firm. He and his wife, Tonya, have two sons, Bryce and Harris. Together, they have been enjoying Scouting activities for the past eight years.

Dale assumed his first leadership role in 2008 as a Den Leader, when his sons participated Cub Scouts. In order to learn more about Scouting, Dale attended Wood Badge at the Philmont Scout Ranch, NM in 2009. This experience initiated his passion for Scouting by giving him perspective into the history and purpose of the program. From there, he accepted the role of Cubmaster of Pack 18 at Saigling Elementary from 2011 to 2015.

In 2012, Dale became a member of Troop 1000 when his oldest son crossed over from Cub Scouts. From that time forward, he has actively served as an Assistant Scoutmaster. He enjoys high adventure camping, and has been an adult adviser for the T1000 Crews at Philmont in 2013 and 2015.

As he becomes the new Scoutmaster in November 2015, he plans to promote the T1000 program as a family activity. With the active participation of adults in the unit, there is opportunity to teach and live by the Scout Oath and Law. Through this, we become better as individuals, families and a community as a whole.

Four times a year, Troop 1000 families gather to honor the achievements of all of our Scouts for the quarter. This includes rank advancements, Merit Badges, years of service and One Grand awards. This is when we'll have the changing of the Scoutmaster. It's an event you can't miss!

The Troop Court of Honor is Saturday, November 7. All advancement and any completed blue cards must be turned in by the end of the Troop meeting on Monday, November 2.

Summer Camp: June 19 - 25, 2016

Troop 1000 will attend summer camp at Trevor Rees-Jones Scout Camp from June 19 to 25 in 2016. We have been assigned Hickory Hill and Cedar Gap campsites. (See bottom of map where it's marked.)

There's much to do at TRJ, including the new All-Terrain Vehicle program for Scouts 14 and older. There's climbing, COPE, canoeing, paddle-boarding, horsemanship, shooting sports, and so much more for the Troop to enjoy. The Trail to First Class program will offer much to our new Scouts, and the Merit Badge programs will keep the older Scouts busy the entire week.

The camp cost per Scout is $250 to $300 and will be broken down into a payment schedule to be announced later. Remember there are many opportunities for Scouts to help pay for their summer camp cost by participating in the Popcorn and Greenery sales, as well as the Camp Card program. There is usually some additional cost for each Scout which depends on what Merit Badges or special activities they are participating in. Stay tuned for more news in the near future, and remember, summer will be here before you know it.
